

MINOR

Global Poverty, Local Solutions

10 weeks

15 ECs

English instruction

About the minor

The International Institute of Social Studies (ISS) of Erasmus University Rotterdam offers the Global Poverty, Local Solutions course to introduce students to global poverty and inequality as central problems of contemporary global development. This course provides students with the tools to understand how different schools of thought approach the study of global poverty and to assess the policy interventions that aim to combat it. The course is taught by a team of instructors from different social science disciplines and combines lectures and small group activities. Students will become familiar with the leading ideas, debates and policy interventions in poverty reduction.

Application & Admission

The course commences the last week of August. Please check our website for admission requirements and fees.

Location

International Institute of Social Studies
Kortenaerkade 12
2518 AX The Hague
The Netherlands

Scan for info!

